

“She is brilliantly analytical and gets to points long before others do.”

“She is a very exceptionally good barrister.”

(Chambers UK)

Alison acted as Junior Counsel for the Prosecution in the trial of those accused of murdering Stephen Lawrence. Thereafter, she acted as Junior Counsel in the Ellison Review, reviewing allegations of police corruption relating to the investigation.

She has been involved in prosecuting some of the most complex terrorism prosecutions of the last 15 years including the Ricin Conspiracy, the 21/7 Bomb, the plot to bomb the London Stock Exchange and the terrorist attack at Parsons Green Station.

She is currently instructed as leading counsel in the cases of Khairi Saadallah (the alleged terrorist attack in Reading in the summer of 2020) and the on-going criminal investigation into the tragic events at Grenfell Tower.

Her experience extends to high profile defence work, including acting for the former Pictures Editor of ‘The Sun’ newspaper, who was acquitted of allegations of misconduct in a public office.

She has considerable experience in complex corporate crime, in particular advising in the Serious Fraud Office’s investigation into Rolls Royce Plc and as part of the team involved in the prosecution Barclays Plc and its senior executives. She is currently instructed to represent an individual under investigation by the Serious Fraud Office in relation to alleged offences of bribery and fraud.

In addition to her considerable litigation experience, Alison has provided advice on a range of complex legal issues ranging from the scope and application of corporate criminality, the ambit and proper application of counter-terrorism legislation, mutual legal assistance and oversees evidential enquiries.

She is recommended in the 2020 edition of Legal 500.
